 Prof. Hiroshi Minami, Tokyo, Japan
 B. February 1975
 D. The great majority of Japanese psychologists transferred their special national university degrees into the corresponding Anglo-American equivalents. In a few instances, the original Japanese degree has been reported. In these cases the Japanese denotation has been taken by the editors and is presented in the entry. Nearly all degrees given under the original Japanese denotation have been granted by the Faculty of Letters, and have the title of Bungakushi. As to the academic requirements needed for its granting, the Bungakushi corresponds roughly to the B.A. (Gakushi equals Bachelor); however, the presentation of a thesis is needed.
